Dear Mr Turner

Thank you for your reply on behalf of Mr Ken Livingstone telling me "there is nothing he can do to help".

This is a most unexpected reply in light of the fact that in 'ONMagazine' Mr Livingstone claims to be particularly concerned about the "problem of soaring housing costs" (page 02).

Evidently, his concern is limited to people who do not have a home, rather than those who have one and will be thrown out of it because they cannot pay the exorbitant, unwarranted charges that unscrupulous landlords get away with charging them. (See attached the first of such demand I have received from the managing agents: £14,400 (!) And there will be more of the same).

At least, it is reassuring to know that when I get thrown out of my flat because I cannot pay the charges and I lose everything, I can turn up on the doorstep of City Hall with my suitcase in the knowledge that Mr Livingstone will then be able to help me.

Best regards

Noëlle Rawé
